2011 KTM 300XC By Geoff Walker on ... The EXC range are running the same style as the last year or two but the XC models come dressed like the 2011 MXers. This separates them from the EXC models but you still get the smooth enduro style motor configurations as well as uprated suspension for the bigger hits found on the XC-type going. Both the 250 and 300 come with electric start which will ...

As for the rest of the bike, the XC-W chassis is a little different from anything else in the KTM line, aside, perhaps, from the dual-sport bikes. It has the latest version of the PDS no-link rear suspension with a completely redesigned shock this year. All of the factory off-road riders in Europe use this design.
