A top behavioral geneticist makes the case that DNA inherited from our parents at the moment of conception can predict our psychological strengths and weaknesses. In Blueprint, behavioral geneticist Robert Plomin describes how the DNA revolution has made DNA personal by giving us the power to predict our psychological strengths and weaknesses from birth. A century of genetic research shows that DNA differences inherited from our parents are the consistent life-long sources of our psychological individuality—the blueprint that makes us who we are. This, says Plomin, is a game changer. Plomin has been working on these issues for almost fifty years, conducting longitudinal studies of twins and adoptees. He reports that genetics explains more of the psychological differences among people than all other factors combined. Genetics accounts for fifty percent of psychological differences—not just mental health and school achievement but all psychological traits, from personality to intellectual abilities. Nature, not nurture is what makes us who we are. Plomin explores the implications of this, drawing some provocative conclusions—among them that parenting styles don't really affect children's outcomes once genetics is taken into effect. Neither tiger mothers nor attachment parenting affects children's ability to get into Harvard. After describing why DNA matters, Plomin explains what DNA does, offering readers a unique insider's view of the exciting synergies that came from combining genetics and psychology.

A road map for how to navigate the confusing, secretive world of consumer credit, and how to upgrade and correct your score.

Chronic pain costs the nation up to $635 billion each year in medical treatment and lost productivity. The 2010 Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act required the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) to enlist the Institute of Medicine (IOM) in examining pain as a public health problem. In this report, the IOM offers a blueprint for action in transforming prevention, care, education, and research, with the goal of providing relief for people with pain in America. To reach the vast multitude of people with various types of pain, the nation must adopt a population-level prevention and management strategy. The IOM recommends that HHS develop a comprehensive plan with specific goals, actions, and timeframes. Better data are needed to help shape efforts, especially on the groups of people currently underdiagnosed and undertreated, and the IOM encourages federal and state agencies and private organizations to accelerate the collection of data on pain incidence, prevalence, and treatments. Because pain varies from patient to patient, healthcare providers should increasingly aim at tailoring pain care to each person's experience, and self-management of pain should be promoted. In addition, because there are major gaps in knowledge about pain across health care and society alike, the IOM recommends that federal agencies and other stakeholders redesign education programs to bridge these gaps. Pain is a major driver for visits to physicians, a major reason for taking medications, a major cause of disability, and a key factor in quality of life and productivity. Given the burden of pain in human lives, dollars, and social consequences, relieving pain should be a national priority.

Change your thinking about running. Is running really harmful to your joints? Do you suffer from common running injuries and wonder why? You can avoid things like - Shin splints - Joint pain - Muscle strains - Foot pain And it's not just by changing your shoes, or getting better arch supports or insoles. The advice doesn't come from just anyone. Dr. Kevin Vandi has written this book on data he's analyzed from runners he's worked with all over the world. He's a Doctor of Physical Therapy, board-certified Orthopedic Clinical Specialist, Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist, and a leader in integrating advanced biomechanical analysis and feedback into clinical practice. His goal is that you use this system to help you run faster, run longer, and run pain-free at any age. Running is a skill to be mastered, just like any other skill. Yes, you can alter your running form. There are skills you can learn that will make you a better runner, less prone to injury, and that will keep you running for years to come. You'll learn about: - Running form. - Proper landing. - Proper knee and joint control. - And how your muscles work during running. But that's not all. This is not just a book with a bunch of technical jargon about how running works. The Running Blueprint offers practical solutions. The Running Blueprint includes exercises you can start right now to help change and improve your running form. You won't be a perfect runner right away. Making new habits and breaking old ones takes time and practice. If you follow the program and stick with it, you'll be a new runner in no time at all. And the best news is, you can master the skill of running at any age. The Running Blueprint will show you how.

Having a low credit score can be very expensive and cause you to miss out on opportunities. In my case, I was trying to refinance my $300,000 mortgage. My credit score was 620 because I had some negative items on my credit that I wasn't aware of, and extra debt on my credit cards that I could not afford to pay off. I was quoted an interest rate of 6.25% because of my low credit score. Instead of taking the loan, I repaired my credit by removing the incorrect items and paid down some of the debt on my credit cards. I waited a month, and my credit score jumped to 725. I reapplied for the loan and got a quote of 4.5%. If you have one mortgage, buy 3 cars over the 30 year period, and carry $10,000 credit card debt over the 30 year period, you will spend an extra $238,500 on additional interest, or another way to look at it, you will throw away $238,500 to have the same things had you not maintained a healthy credit history and score. If you need to increase your credit score to move into a new apartment, house, buy a car, or get loans for business. This book has a complete game plan on how to get started and get the end results you're looking for. If you're in a bind and need quick results, this book will show you how to increase your credit score in hours! This book will teach you the fundamentals of credit repair, how the credit system works, and how to maximize your credit benefits. Plus, we offer recommendations on how to develop a monthly cash flow system that can generate thousands of dollars per month and use your credit cards to buy real assets like real estate. This credit guide will teach you how to make money with your credit like a professional investor and help you build new streams of income. Success is learnable, follow the strategies in this book, and open yourself to a new world of opportunities. "Dr. Ernesto Martinez offers a wealth of advice and information that any consumer would do well to follow and implement. I highly recommend this book for anyone interested in fixing their finances and generating new forms of income." Justin Degeneffe, Credit Counselor
